

NELLIE BLY ARRESTED.
She Has Herself Dragged from a Hotel and Locked Up All Night in a Station House.
SEE THE SUNDAY WORLD.
A GRAPHIC STORY OF JUST WHAT HAPPENS TO A YOUNG WOMAN AFTER THE POLICE SEIZE HER.
PRICE ONE CENT.

The Evening World

IN THE SUNDAY WORLD.
JOAQUIN MILLER'S "THE BURIED RIVER."
NEW STORIES.
The First Installment, with Remains of Preceding Chapters.
MARYLAND'S MAN-WOMAN.
SCENES IN CHINA'S BIGGEST CITY.
THE SOCIETY RELIES OF BALTIMORE.
NEW FADS AT THE BIG INAUGURAL BALL.
COLUMNS OF MISCELLANY AND SPECIAL ARTICLES.
PRICE ONE CENT.

LAST EDITION.

NOW MAKE IT A LAW

Republicans Indorse the Proposed Children's Law Amendment.

Tammany's Good Example Promptly Followed.

Every Reason for "The Evening World's" Bill to Be Passed Without Delay.

THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT.
(Drawn by a well-known Supreme Court Judge.)
All proceedings under this section (Sec. 201), Chapter 678, Laws of 1884, and Chapter 40, Laws of 1885, when a commitment shall have been made, shall be subject to review by any court of record, upon certiorari on the facts and the law, and in such a proceeding the commitment order or judgment may be affirmed or reversed or modified in such manner and to such extent as may seem best, or a rehearing of the charge ordered.

Following closely upon the indorsement by Tammany Hall of THE EVENING WORLD'S amendment to the iniquitous law which allows children to be taken from their parents and committed to institutions without possibility of appeal, the Republican County Committee has taken decisive and unanimous action sustaining the agitation in behalf of the proposed amendment was urged by S. H. Randall, of the Nineteenth District, at the meeting of the County Committee the other night. He offered the following resolution:

Resolved, By the Republican Committee of the city and county of New York, that we hereby earnestly indorse and recommend the passage by the Legislature of the State of New York of the proposed amendment to the Penal Code now pending before that legislative body, that all proceedings under section 201, Chapter 678, Laws of 1884, and Chapter 40, Laws of 1885, when a commitment shall have been made, shall be subject to review by any court of record, upon certiorari on the facts and the law, and in such a proceeding the commitment order or judgment may be affirmed or reversed or modified in such manner and to such extent as may seem best, or a rehearing of the charge ordered.

It was evident that the sentiment of the meeting was entirely with the proposer of the resolution, for Mr. Randall was loudly applauded and greeted with such cries as "That's the thing!" "This is what we want," "Hurrah for Randall!" and the like.

The motion was immediately seconded by Gen. Joseph C. Jackson, of the seventeenth District, and by Major John Wesley Jacobus, of the Ninth.

Mr. Randall then addressed the Committee in behalf of the resolution. He said:

"The great public interest that is now being evinced in the matter to which this amendment relates is well known, and it is a matter of common knowledge that the system of kidnapping children, which has been prevalent in New York under the forms of law as administered by certain organizations—the most prominent of which is the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children—may be prevented, and suitable legislation provided, by the passage of the amendment to the law as proposed by THE EVENING WORLD."

"The law now permits a police magistrate to have the sole and arbitrary power of committing these children, and this is rendered it almost impossible for a parent to regain possession of his or her child."

"Years ago the great heart of the North was touched by the earnest portrayal by Mrs. Trollope of the inhuman system whereby the families of colored children at the South were broken up and scattered."

"But to-day, in this city of New York, and in this imperial State, there has been a system whereby white children, usually the offspring of poor and humble parents, have been seized by the officers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and then, under the slightest pretext and often without notice to their parents."

"They have been brought before a police magistrate, a hurried hearing had, the children sent to some temporary asylum, and then distributed to families perhaps thousands of miles away."

$15, THEN $12, THEN $10.

JUSTICE DUFFY FINALLY DECIDES ON MRS. LEVINSON'S SUPPORT MONEY.

Levinson Must Give It to Gen. King, Who Will Hand It Over to the Lady—A Summons in the Divorce Proceedings Served in a Croquet Boat and Promptly Thrown Out of the Window.

The matrimonial difficulties of Arthur Levinson, the "Zig-Zag" actor, came up before the fine judicial eye of Patrick Gavan Duffy in the Jefferson Market Police Court at 10 this morning.

Black-eyed Kate Levinson and the little male Levinson, who is as keen as a ferret and has his papa's lip and his mamma's cheek as the spoils of heredity, were on hand under Col. O'Brien's deputy.

Actor Levinson, who has a mournful face that could be a fortune in the undertaker's business, came forward under the protecting wing of Gen. Horatio C. King's blue orb.

The General was armed with Mr. Levinson's affidavit, containing very unflattering strictures on his better half. The "Little Judge" declared that he was tired of the case.

"Why doesn't the man pay her the $15 a week?" he asked. "He's got to support her till he's divorced. There!"

This last was a curt interjection flung at Mrs. Levinson, who had lost no time in bursting into tears.

Gen. King declared that his client had paid the money, but that the woman had gotten a lot of jewelry, and Levinson's money was going to pay for that.

Following up this man with extraordinary tenacity, "I'm tired of the case," to Levinson he said: "You pay her $12 a week. You could do that if her boot one 'super.'"

Under Gen. King's persuasiveness he reduced it to $10 a week, which Mr. Levinson has to pay to Gen. King, who will pay it to Mrs. Levinson.

The summons in the divorce proceedings was served on Mrs. Levinson yesterday. Her lawyer remarked to Mr. King on the way out that yesterday was a legal holiday.

So the General and Mr. Levinson hastily boarded an Eighth street car, which Mrs. Levinson had tossed the summons and complaint in her lap, and left at once.

Mrs. Levinson's black eyes snapped, and catching up the summons she hurried it after the retreating enemy. It fell by the side of a beer-wagon and became a literary waif, as it were.

But the summons had been served. Mrs. Levinson says his wife's temper is not as sweet as could be desired for that close intimacy which matrimony brings.

He shows regretfully a lump on the lobe of the socket of his eye which he says was created by Mrs. Levinson's hammering him with the heel of her shoe one day while in a wild, erratic state of temper.

He has not lived with her since February, 1887, and says he will push the divorce through as fast as he can.

"I should think you would give $20 a week to be rid of the woman," said the "Little Judge" to him after Mrs. Levinson had retired.

Patrick Gavan Duffy is not stuck on matrimony himself.

KILLED BY BANDITS.

Two Passengers Meet Death During a Daring Train Robbery.

The Engineer Stopped the Train at the Point of Two Revolvers.

Poses Are Out in Hot Pursuit of the Assassins.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
DELANO, Cal., Feb. 23.—Five men boarded train No. 17 as it pulled out of Pixley last night.

When it had proceeded a short distance two of them clambered on the engine and covered the engineer and fireman with their revolvers, and compelled them to bring the train to a stop.

When this was done the other three men entered the express car and ordered the messenger to open the box.

Dynamite bombs were exploded under the car.

Two of the passengers ran from the door, frightened.

The robbers fired at them, killing one named Charles Gahert, of Paso, and fatally wounding E. S. Bentley, of Modesto.

The passenger coaches were not molested. The train ran back to Pixley when released, where the news was left.

The excitement was so intense that it could not be learned how much booty was secured. Another report says that but two men were engaged in the robbery.

One covered the engineer and the other terrified the messengers and passengers by the explosion of dynamite cartridges until the robbery was accomplished.

The two passengers, it is said, were shot because the robbers thought they were going to attack them.

A posse has started from here and another from Pixley in pursuit of the desperadoes.

FLAMES AGAIN IN BUFFALO.

HEAVY MERCANTILE LOSSES AND THE REPORTED KILLING OF A FIREMAN.

(BY LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
BUFFALO, Feb. 23.—This city is again suffering from a disastrous blaze.

The fire started in the store of J. H. Hunt at about 11:50 and spread rapidly to the large pork-packing establishment of A. M. Wettler, at Hanover and Pine streets.

This establishment was entirely destroyed, the loss being $75,000.

Thirty men were employed in the place. N. Wolf, dealer in hides and wool, occupied a portion of the Wettler building and also suffered a loss.

The fire is still burning, and the Buffalo Printing Works across the street from Wettler's are in great danger.

One fireman is reported to have been killed.

STEVENS AT ZANZIBAR.

(SPECIAL CABLE TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION.)
ZANZIBAR, Feb. 23.—Stevens, THE WORLD'S explorer, who arrived here some days ago, is now organizing his expedition to go in quest of Stanley.

Many courtesies familiar with the country and people have been engaged.

All preparations are being pushed as rapidly as possible.

The most reliable information as to Stanley's probable whereabouts is being gleaned before starting, together with the latest intelligence about the operations of the slave-traders and the massacre of the missionaries by the Arabs.

THE COACHMAN AGAIN!

Another Elopement of the Familiar Sort.

The Romantic Couple Take French Leave of Dublin.

They Are Detained on Their Arrival in Boston.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
BOSTON, Feb. 23.—One of those romantic elopements which cause considerable excitement in society was brought to light on the arrival of the Heaven line steamer Lake Huron, which reached the dock in East Boston last night.

The young lady is the daughter of an Irish nobleman holding a colonel's commission in the English army.

She is a charming brunette, just past her majority, with a pretty face and figure and a striking carriage.

While the girl is attractive, and the personification of sweetness, her gay Lothario is just the reverse.

He is a man about two score, with hair slightly tinged with gray.

There is nothing about his personal manners that would seem to be attractive to a woman.

It is the same old story of romance and foolishness.

A coachman drove his employer's daughter about the suburbs of old Dublin.

When together in the roads and lanes acquaintance ripened into something more serious.

The coachman prevailed upon the unsophisticated maiden to leave Ireland and come with him to this glorious land.

They took passage on one of the night boats that ply between Dublin and Liverpool.

On their arrival in that city they went to the office of the Beaver line.

They engaged a second-class passage on board the Lake Huron.

They took passage under the assumed names of "Mr. and Mrs. Neil."

The men detailed easily traced the fleeing couple.

The father then called Pinkerton's men in this country to intercept the couple on the steamer's arrival in Boston.

Supt. Cornish, of the Boston office, was on hand at the wharf when the ship came into East Boston last night.

He used all his persuasive powers to induce the young lady to leave her lover, but she obstinately refused.

She said: "My affection for him is stronger than any love of home and my father. I cannot, I will not leave him."

The couple say they will be married to-day.

WHERE'S DOREMUS?

Ives & Stayner's Young Partner Can't Be Found.

A Rumor That He, Too, Has Been Indicted.

Bench Warrants for Napoleon & Co. Left at Ludlow Street Jail.

Inspector Byrnes this morning received a bench warrant, issued by Recorder Smyth, for the arrest of Henry D. Ives and George H. Stayner on an indictment for grand larceny in the first degree.

The warrant is lodged at Ludlow Street Jail and the young Napoleon and his partner cannot escape.

They will be arraigned before Judge Cowling Monday to plead to the indictment and will then be returned to Ludlow Street Jail there to remain in the custody of Sheriff Clark on the civil procedure pending against them till wanted for trial for grand larceny which will occur before the trial of the civil suit.

But should they succeed in obtaining the $250,000 bail each they will then be taken in custody by Inspector Byrnes's men and landed in the Tombs.

They were arrested by their clerk, Edward Wilson Woodruff, who was also Secretary and Treasurer of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railway Company under the rule of the young Napoleon.

They were indicted jointly on the charge of grand larceny. There is only one count and it charges that Woodruff as Treasurer with Napoleon and Stayner conspired to defraud the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Chicago Railway, a leased line of the C. H. and D. road, giving them into the hands of Ives and Stayner for their own personal use and benefit. These bonds were nominally worth $1,000 each.

It is said that young Thomas C. Doremus, who was an Exchange member of the firm of Ives & Co., was included in the indictment.

All information as to the truth of this statement is denied at the District Attorney's office, where the story was neither affirmed nor refuted.

Woodruff was employed as a clerk by R. W. Leonard & Co., brokers, 35 Wall street, till the arrest of Ives and Stayner on Jan. 12. Then he disappeared. Detective Von Gerichten arrested him Thursday evening at the home of his father, Otho Woodruff, business manager of the Newark Advertiser, in that city.

The detective arrested Woodruff as a fugitive from justice, and he was locked in the Tombs with Ives and Stayner.

He declares that he is perfectly willing to come to New York whenever he is called for, but never will act as a defendant in the case of Ives, Stayner and Woodruff.

James H. Ridgway, attorney for Ives and Stayner, said to-day that he would conduct the prosecution to-day, made out the proper papers for a requisition and forwarded them to the District Attorney.

Doremus, who is a son of Prof. Ogden Doremus, disappeared shortly after the arrest of Ives and Stayner on the civil suit, in which he was not included as a defendant.

Frank H. Lawrence, counsel for the C. H. and D. Company in that suit, says that Doremus is not in the same position as his partner, but is the master of the robbery of the Company's stockholders.

His part of the business of the firm was on the floor of the Stock Exchange, and he had nothing to do with the notorious operations of Ives, Stayner and Woodruff.

James H. Ridgway, attorney for Ives and Stayner, said to-day that he would conduct the prosecution to-day, made out the proper papers for a requisition and forwarded them to the District Attorney.

It is an outrageous thing to employ the processes of the criminal law to enforce a civil claim.

"Interpreted you mean that somebody has been pinched by superior financiers and are trying to squeeze the pinchers?" suggested the reporter.

"Well, yes, to some extent. Those who have been hurt and those who are in expectation of being hurt. We don't believe in trying to keep the newspapers. But we may have some interesting statements to make in a few days. We have made no threats yet, and we don't propose to."

DIDN'T KNOW 'T WAS WICKED.

BUT MRS. KELLY MUST ANSWER FOR SELLING THAT PICTURE.

The Sheriff Furnished $1,000 Bail for Jersey City's Accused Dealer in Cigarettes—Principal Prescott Talks of Damages to the Youth of the Land—What a Father Said About the Picture.

Mrs. Clementine Kelly, who was arrested on complaint of Principal Charles J. Prescott, of Public School 13, in Jersey City, on the charge of selling an obscene picture to Victor Metz, one of his scholars, as told in yesterday's EVENING WORLD, was brought up for examination before Justice of the Peace Aldridge this morning.

Mrs. Kelly said she kept the store at 98 Jackson avenue. She had received the objectionable pictures from the agent of the cigarette firm, who told her that the pictures were meant to advertise a special brand of cigarettes, the sale of which had fallen to almost nothing in less than five years.

She did not deny having the picture in her possession, but said she was unaware of its immoral character.

The Justice read the law against selling or having in possession obscene prints of any description, and warned the prisoner that the punishment was $1,000 fine, or a year's imprisonment, or both. He added that in this case the fault was undoubtedly that of the picture, but that she was not to be punished for the crime of another.

Principal Prescott here interposed and spoke of the danger which beset the youths through the distribution of such articles. He said that he was sure that the pictures were meant to advertise a special brand of cigarettes, the sale of which had fallen to almost nothing in less than five years.

Mr. Metz, the father of the boy who is alleged to have purchased the picture, said that he could go out and in less than a half hour could bring back twenty or fifty copies of the picture. He didn't think the woman was guilty of any criminal intention.

"There isn't a boy between here and Hackensack who hasn't got one," said Mr. Metz.

Frederick Kinney asked for an adjournment until Monday to allow Mrs. Kelly to obtain counsel. Mr. Prescott objected, saying he didn't have the time to waste.

After some little argument Mr. Kinney said that the woman would waive examination and go before the Grand Jury.

Bail was fixed at $1,000, and it was furnished by Sheriff Davis, of Hudson County.

GET OUT YOUR MUFFLERS.

THERE'S REAL WINTER AHEAD, THE WEATHER CLERK SAYS.

A genuine blast of Winter swept down upon New York last night, and this morning it touched up the noses and ears of pedestrians with a sharpness that has not been felt this Winter.

The mercury even crunched way down low in its shell of glass as though it felt the effects of the blast. A high wind from the northwest filled every one's eyes, ears and noses with fine particles of icy dust, and walking was not pleasant.

Sergeant Dunn, the genial weather clerk, said that this blast was to be the coldest of any yet experienced.

The lowest point registered to-day was at 8 o'clock this morning, when the mercury stood at 12 degrees below zero. At 11 o'clock it was only three degrees higher.

Key West is the warmest spot in the United States to-day, the temperature being 60 degrees above zero. Everywhere else, from the extreme northwest to the Gulf of Mexico, the cold is intense.

In Minnesota, Manitoba, they have the coldest temperature of 52 degrees below zero. At St. Paul, Minn., it is 24 degrees below zero. St. Louis is warmer, the temperature there being zero.

Canada and Pittsburgh will probably enjoy a milder day, though it is said to be in the northern part of this State the cold will be very severe, and the mercury will probably drop fifteen or twenty degrees below zero.

During the cold wave in this city the weather will be fair, with brisk northerly and westerly winds.

Weather Indications.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—For Eastern New York: Fair, colder; a snow storm, with a strong wind, on the coast. The weather to-day, indicated by the thermometer, is 12 degrees below zero.

LAST EDITION.

DID SHE KILL HIM?

Henry Corders Murdered and His Wife and Cousin Looked Up.

The Woman Supposed to Have Caused His Death.

A Terrible Fight in Which a Platter Played a Serious Part.

A good looking German, with a blond mustache, lay on a bed in a room on the second floor, of No. 192 Bleeker street, when an EVENING WORLD reporter entered this morning. He was stretched out on his back. His arms were crossed on his chest.

His stockinged feet rested one upon the other in a comfortable position. His large blue eyes were wide open and seemed to follow the course of an insect that was slowly crawling across the ceiling.

At a distance you would think he was meditating, but approach, and at a glance you would see that he was dead.

A long, jagged cut on the left temple, encrusted with coagulated blood, evidenced the cause of death.

He was murdered between midnight and 1 o'clock this morning, and his wife Emma is arrested on suspicion of killing him.

His name was Henry Corders. He was forty years old, and bore a good reputation.

Mrs. Corders is a stout, West Indian woman, and looks like a mulatto. She was forty years old.

To celebrate the event her husband invited her second cousin, Theodore Enders, of 430 Ocean avenue, Jersey City, to supper last evening.

After the meal the two began drinking. They made very merry during the early hours of the night, but at about 11 P. M. they began to quarrel.

Other tenants in the house heard the woman's voice shrieking and cursing.

She was a fury, a veritable tigress when in temper or her passion aroused by liquor.

Her husband was always a quiet, sensible man, and was always ready to keep quiet. At intervals until the midnight hour had woundled she was heard raving about in the room.

Then suddenly a fearful uproar was heard in the room, dishes were heard smashing against the doors and walls, and at last a man's voice was heard shouting out.

Louis Chenau, who lived in an adjoining room, rushed to Corders's door and opened it. The sight he saw was a savage one.

In the corner of the room Corders was lying, his face covered with blood, while his wife, a picture of all diabolical, stood over him and kicked him. Her thick features, flushed with rage, looked as if she was about to strike him.

Chenau and Arthur Challet, another neighbor, rushed in to rescue the prostrate man. They picked him up and laid him on the bed.

Ehlers dashed out of the room. Baptiste Reynaud and Jules Chavet, the landlord of the house, also rushed in, and a terrible uproar, rushed out for a policeman.

They found Officer Bennell, of the Mercer street station, and he went into the house with them.

On the way they met Ehlers running out, and arrested him.

When they entered the room Mrs. Corders was trying to stab the body of the rear window. Bennell pulled her back.

Then he looked at her husband on the bed. One glance was enough.

He was dead.